

Crystal Caragine

ccaragine@wustl.edu

573-837-7731

ccaragine.com

Education

Drew University

Bachelor of Arts
Political Science Major
History Minor

Madison, New Jersey
2014 - 2018

ICPSR

Categorical Data Analysis
Regression Analysis II

Summer 2017

Conference Papers

Emancipative Values and Democratic Backsliding in Central and Eastern Europe: Do Values Matter? (Presented at the Northeastern Political Science Conference, November 2017)

Relevant Research / Class Experience

- Spring 2018 Honors Thesis- Defended Honors Thesis “Emancipative Values and Democratization: Is a Desire for Freedom a Cause or an Effect of Democracy?”
- Fall 2017 NPSA Conference- Presented research paper at the Northeastern Political Science Conference “Emancipative Values and Democratic Backsliding in Central and Eastern Europe: Do Values Matter?”
- Fall 2017 Econometrics and Public Opinion Survey Research- Both classes allowed me to continue using and improving my statistical skills
- Summer 2017 ICPSR participant- Attended ICPSR, an intense four week statistics course held at the University of Michigan. Took graduate level courses on topics such as categorical data analysis and regression assumptions
- Fall 2016 Democratization course- Introduced me to the democratization literature and provided me with a breadth of information relating to the democratization process
- Spring 2016 Research Methods in Political Science- Introduced me to political science research and introductory statistics

Organizations

Phi Beta Kappa
Pi Sigma Alpha

Extracurricular Activities

2017 – 2018	Senior Class Senator
2015 – 2018	Scarlet Aquatics Swim Coach
2014 – 2018	NCAA Swim Team
2017 – 2018	Academic Tutor